Dear Mme. Doria:

Professor Vilem Flusser has left with us the English text of "La Force du Quotidien" so that we may seek an American publisher of the book. We are writing to ask for both guidance and permission.

We would like for you to send us the requirements which American publishers will have to meet in order to publish a book the copyright for which is held by Edition Mame. Once we receive these financial and publication requirements, we will proceed to approach Braziller, Harper and Row, Beacon, and Northwestern.

Also, we would like to receive from you at your early opportunity (we go to press in ten days), a statement of permission to print Flusser's essay "Walls" from the collection, in the English translation of course. Please indicate the credit that you would like for us to mention with the article in our publication.

We are pleased to seek a publisher for this very interesting collection of essays, and we hope that the search will be successful.

With warm regards,

Patrick Milburn
Associate Editor
